OUR COMMITMENT TO EQUITY, RACIAL JUSTICE, DIVERSITY, INCLUSION AND DECOLONIZATION

The Faculty of Social Work (FSW), University of Calgary (UCalgary), is committed to promoting and actualizing equity, racial justice, diversity, inclusion and decolonization. We affirm that diversity and uniqueness are enriching and valuable, and that they can strengthen our teaching, learning, research, scholarship, and community connections. We aim to foster an inclusive, thriving and equitable environment for our students, non-academic and academic staff, and community members. We take the stand that equity does not mean sameness in treatment of people, but rather requires measures and accommodations for diverse life experiences and circumstances to ensure that no one of a particular social group is disadvantaged, underrepresented or overlooked in all aspects of our work. We intend to address systemic inequities and compounded disadvantages due to intersectionality of social locations, particularly for those who are members of racialized communities, Indigenous peoples, Black peoples, persons with disabilities, migrant groups (including refugees and immigrants), 2SLGBTQ+ communities, linguistic minorities as well as those who have experienced socioeconomic, caregiving, religious, political, and/or cultural barriers to their education and employment. We also recognize, honour, and integrate into our work diverse perspectives, ways of knowing and doing, experiences, and strengths. An anti-oppressive lens, particularly intersectional, anti-colonial, anti-racist and decolonizing frameworks, will inform our work.

Please refer to our full statement of Our Commitment to Equity, Racial Justice, Diversity, Inclusion and Decolonization, Statements on Anti-Black and Anti-Asian Racism, the work of the faculty's Anti-Black Racism Task Force, and the university's Indigenous Strategy.

SYLLABUS STATEMENT

This course will bring together senior undergraduate students from various helping professions to examine aspects of mental health care and delivery in an interprofessional context. This course will look at the complex array of treatments, programs and supports available in a Canadian context. It will also critically examine the ancillary issues of community care, community treatment orders, financial and housing supports and other support services that are required for community tenure for those with severe mental illness with and without co-occurring addictive disorders. While including a brief examination of pathologies, this course will not concentrate on the assessment and diagnosis of mental and substance abuse disorders.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will take place online via Desire2Learn (D2L) and Zoom. To best succeed in the course, students are expected to participate in the asynchronous learning tasks using the D2L learning environment and synchronous Zoom sessions. When unable to participate live due to the time difference or unforeseen circumstances, inform the instructor in advance and propose and implement an alternative participation activity (e.g., watch the recordings, submit a brief reflection, and actively contribute to the follow-up online discussion).

This course will examine contemporary issues in the assessment, diagnosis and treatment of mental health and include a focus on the complexities of co-occurring disorders. It will focus on identification, diagnosis and understanding of the complexity of issues facing individuals with mental health problems and/or addictions, their family members, and mental health care providers. Case studies will be used to demonstrate interprofessional practice and the link between research and practice. Zoom sessions will focus on providing interactive opportunities to discuss key issues raised in course readings.

A major goal of this course is to link theory to practice so that students are prepared to fill professional roles in the community in the area of mental health and addictions. The emphasis will be on evidence-based, interprofessional practice.

This course has no prerequisites. However, students are strongly urged to have taken a preliminary course in human development/behavior in the social environment prior to taking this course.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

This course focuses on the biological, social, and psychological determinants of mental health problems and their treatments; thus, it is multidisciplinary in nature. Diversity issues will also be considered throughout the course (e.g., culture, gender, race, age, etc.). Students may be exposed to presentations of individuals who are experiencing mental health problems and receiving treatment. Guest speakers may be invited to interact with students to discuss various topics including: the experiential aspects of mental illness, treatment alternatives, advocacy and policy issues, and challenges to meeting the needs of those with mental health problems. Due to the potential sensitive nature that is shared by speakers, it is expected that confidentiality is maintained. Class lectures and discussions will focus on methodological and conceptual issues in the mental health literature that showcase best practices. Students will also be expected incorporate relevant research literature in their assignments.

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

1. Understand the multiple aspects of mental health and addictions from diagnosis to treatment.
2. Develop skills in interprofessional practice that utilize best practices in interprofessional collaboration and treatment delivery and to be a component of preparation for students to assume service delivery roles in mental health and addictions settings.
3. Understand policy and services delivery issues that involve issues of accessibility, adequacy and advocacy for persons with mental health challenges.
4. Develop the following core competencies:
 - a) Critical thinking
 - b) Analysis of problems
 - c) Understanding of best, evidence-based, practices
 - d) Effective written and verbal communication in clinical contexts
 - e) Gathering and organizing information
 - f) Interpretive and assessment skills
 - g) Understanding of different professional roles and competencies
 - h) Interprofessional collaboration.
