Self-care is a critical component of social work practice, and it is expected that at least one journal entry will focus on self-care. You will continue discussing what you have been doing during your practicum to support your self-care, support your health/well-being, work-life balance, and job satisfaction. Grading criteria will be posted in D2L.

Specific guidelines and grading criteria for the assignment will be discussed in class. Critical examination, reflection and integration of learning are significant aspects of this assignment. In structuring your presentation, be sure to include the following information: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Setting - description of the agency (mandate, philosophy, personnel, etc.) as well as relevant environmental influences beyond the agency (funding, politics, social attitudes, etc.). • Professional/personal orientation - description of the student's developing professional and personal lenses relevant to the case analysis. This may include, for example, a discussion of the student's developing theoretical practice framework and how the case situation interacts with the student's personal and professional values, identity, diversity (such as age, class, sexual orientation), experiences etc. Students should demonstrate clear links between theory and practice and integrate social work ethics and standards of practice as they inform their work. These aspects of your growth in the profession should also be integrated throughout the paper. • Case description - discussion of background and current details

	relevant to the student's professional involvement, description of the student's role relative to the case. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Social work intervention - description of the action phase of work with the case. This may include the following sub-sections: engagement and information gathering, assessment, intervention, termination, and evaluation of effectiveness. Again, links between theory and practice should be clearly articulated. • Skills (existing and emerging): identify personal strengths/capacities as well as limitations • Final reflection/readiness for practice: putting it all together - what does this all mean for you as a beginning BSW practitioner? What's next as you look forward to being a BSW practitioner? Include areas for continued exploration, growth and professional development You will also have an opportunity to give and receive peer feedback during the presentations. Feedback will make up a total of 10% of the presentation grade, and the instructor's feedback will make up 30% of the grade. Grading criteria will be posted in D2L.

Students and staff are expected to model behaviour in class that is consistent with our professional values and ethics, as outlined in the Canadian Association for Social Workers, Code of Ethics (2005) and the Alberta College of Social Work Standards of Practice (2019).
