OUR COMMITMENT TO EQUITY, RACIAL JUSTICE, DIVERSITY, INCLUSION AND DECOLONIZATION

The Faculty of Social Work (FSW), University of Calgary (UCalgary), is committed to promoting and actualizing equity, racial justice, diversity, inclusion and decolonization. We affirm that diversity and uniqueness are enriching and valuable, and that they can strengthen our teaching, learning, research, scholarship, and community connections. We aim to foster an inclusive, thriving and equitable environment for our students, non-academic and academic staff, and community members. We take the stand that equity does not mean sameness in treatment of people, but rather requires measures and accommodations for diverse life experiences and circumstances to ensure that no one of a particular social group is disadvantaged, underrepresented or overlooked in all aspects of our work. We intend to address systemic inequities and compounded disadvantages due to intersectionality of social locations, particularly for those who are members of racialized communities, Indigenous peoples, Black peoples, persons with disabilities, migrant groups (including refugees and immigrants), 2SLGBTQ+ communities, linguistic minorities as well as those who have experienced socioeconomic, caregiving, religious, political, and/or cultural barriers to their education and employment. We also recognize, honour, and integrate into our work diverse perspectives, ways of knowing and doing, experiences, and strengths. An anti-oppressive lens, particularly intersectional, anti-colonial, anti-racist and decolonizing frameworks, will inform our work.

Please refer to our full statement of our Commitment to Equity, Racial Justice, Diversity, Inclusion and Decolonization, our Statement on Anti-Black Racism and the work of the faculty's Anti-Black Racism Task Force, our Statement on Anti-Asian Racism, and the university's Indigenous Strategy.

SYLLABUS STATEMENT

Individual preparation of a self-directed portfolio as an expression of the student's own critical analysis of diversity, oppression, and social justice in relation to the local context. Honouring the student's prior learning experiences by acknowledging and incorporating aspects of that learning in the development of the project.

Course Hours: 3 units; H (1S-2T)

Prerequisite or co-requisite: Social Work 304

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Drawing from prior learning and life experiences, as well as the themes and content from SOWK 304, students in SOWK 305 are invited to explore and reflect on diversity and oppression as experienced in relationship to their environments/systems and the people around them. Students will explore the core spheres of social work practice: personal, professional, and political in relation to reflexive practice. Through the completion of three assignments utilizing diverse literacies and approaches, students will demonstrate reflexive understanding of diversity and oppression, colonization/decolonization, and reconciliation. Reflective writing and project design will be shaped by experiences and understandings about aspects of the social or physical world and social work practice.

The theme course (Social Work 304) provides students with a foundation of theoretical knowledge related to diversity and oppression to inform ethical and effective professional social work practice. In SOWK 305, students are encouraged to make connections with their learning in SOWK 304 and to further advance their learning about topics of interest related to diversity and oppression. Students will be encouraged to engage in critical inquiry and value and explore diverse ways of knowing.

Throughout the course, students will engage in a variety of learning activities, including dialogue, critical reflection, reflexivity, knowledge creation, and social justice-oriented action. SOWK 305 will involve participating in module learning activities (module readings, recorded lectures, and participating in asynchronous and synchronous discussions) and completing two additional integrative assignments (outlined below).

Students will enrich their professional practice frameworks by integrating new understandings of diversity and oppression gleaned in SOWK 304 and SOWK 305. Students will apply critical thinking skills by formulating personally and professionally meaningful questions to guide their learning in the course.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Course-specific Learning Objectives (CLO's):

Through successful completion of this course, students will:

1. Articulate knowledge of how discrimination, oppression, poverty, exclusion, exploitation, and marginalization have a negative impact on particular individuals and groups and strive to end these and other forms of social injustice.
2. Examine and critically reflect on how their own identities, social locations, personal and professional contexts, biases, assumptions, and perspectives influence their approach to social work practice.
3. Critically assess the social, historical, economic, Indigenous, legal, political, institutional and cultural contexts of social work practice at local, regional, provincial, national, and international levels.
4. Apply critical thinking, critical reflection, and reflexivity to identify and address structural sources of injustice and inequalities in the context of a Canadian society, especially for disadvantaged and oppressed groups, and to participate in efforts to change these.
5. Apply knowledge of colonization/decolonization, reconciliation, and diversity/oppression within a social work practice framework.
6. Identify and evaluate limitations of own knowledge and understanding of the history of Indigenous Peoples and communities in Canada and proceed to address these by formulating questions to guide self-directed learning.
7. Interpret SOWK 304 and SOWK 305 course teachings and explain how they have contributed to their understanding of diversity of diversity and oppression.

Module 1: Situating yourself through the Belly-Button Approach

Please see instructions on D2L on the Belly-Button Teachings

Module 2: Applying the social determinants of health to your population of choice:

Watch the following video for a quick review on the social determinants of health:

<https://youtu.be/8PH4JYfF4Ns>

Read: Lacombe-Duncan, A., Jadwin-Cakmak, L., Trammell, R., Burks, C., Rivera, B., Reyes, L., Abad, J., Ward, L., Harris, H., Harper, G. W., & Gamarel, K. E. (2022). Reflect & Apply a SDOH Lens:

1. Select a Population: Choose a population of interest for this activity, such as a group you work with, or one connected to your own identity. This allows for a meaningful exploration and application of social determinants of health.
2. Identify Social Determinants: Describe the key social determinants of health that significantly impact this chosen population, including socioeconomic status, education, employment, housing, social support networks, and access to healthcare.
3. Analyze Challenges: Reflect on how one specific social determinant of health within the chosen community influences the challenges faced by individuals. Explore how these challenges manifest and impact overall health and well-being, using real-world examples or case studies if available.
4. Apply a Social Determinants of Health Lens: Discuss effective and holistic strategies to assist individuals within the chosen population, considering the challenges identified. Explore how a social determinants of health lens can inform your approach to addressing these challenges and promoting positive outcomes. Consider the potential role of social workers in addressing these challenges and promoting social justice within the context of the chosen population.
5. Engage in Discussion: Post your findings and reflections in the discussion forum. Engage in constructive dialogue with classmates, providing meaningful feedback, asking clarifying questions, and sharing additional insights or perspectives. Respond to one of your peers' posts.

Note: Ensure confidentiality and respect for privacy when discussing personal experiences or sensitive topics related to your chosen population. Use pseudonyms or alter identifying information to protect individuals' identities and maintain ethical considerations.

Assignment 2: A Letter to Discomfort

Weight: 25%

Due Date: October 17th by 11:59 PM in designated Dropbox in D2L

Aligned Course Learning Outcomes: 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7

The difficulty of experiencing oppression and/or facing unconscious privileges, complicity with dominant ideologies, and resistance to (un/re)learning can elicit both emotional (i.e., fear, anger, aggression, sadness, guilt, apathy) and bodily (i.e., tension, pain, numbness) responses of discomfort. There will be moments during this learning journey when discomforts and difficult emotions will surface as we confront systemic violence and oppressive realities. Engaging in reflexivity requires sitting with and speaking to the bodily responses that come up for us, to better understand how this takes hold in our bodies and what might be underlying our discomforts and difficult emotions. Western systems and ideologies often reinforce the divide between mind and body, as we are socialized into valuing knowledge of the mind, while containing and repressing emotional responses and the knowledge that is held within the body, heart, and spirit.

As a refusal or interruption of dominant ideologies, this embodied assignment invites you to attend to how (un/re)learning takes place within and through the mind, body, spirit and heart. For this assignment, you are asked to write a letter to your discomfort. The medium of a letter allows for intimate and vulnerable exploration and expression of the self, and your social positionings and experiences of living/moving in this world. In this letter, you are asked to speak with the difficult emotions and discomforts you may be experiencing throughout SOWK 304 and 305.

In writing to Discomfort as a living, breathing being, you are invited to explore the following questions with them as you craft your letter:

- Where in the body does Discomfort live/visit? How/what do they make you feel? (e.g., tightening of the jaw, racing heart, a squirmy feeling in the gut etc.)
- What causes Discomfort to surface? When do they reveal themselves to you? (e.g., experiences/reminders of everyday encounters of oppression, confronting inherited privileges and complicities, bearing witness to difficult realities etc.)
- How might you speak to and work with Discomfort to help guide and navigate you through those difficult moments when they arise?
- What is Discomfort asking you to learn or pay attention to?

Please ensure that your letter is within the word limit of 600-800 words, and that it is submitted to the D2L dropbox by 11:59pm on October 17, 2023. If you are engaging or referencing materials and/or resources, please include a reference list and cite sources according to APA 7th edition format.

Assignment 3: Social Justice Diversity and Oppression Portfolio Project (40% total)

Aligned Course Learning Outcomes: 1-7

Part A: Social Justice Diversity and Oppression Portfolio Project Proposal

Weight: 10%

Due Date: October 4th in designated Dropbox

A template will be provided to guide the creation of the proposal on the first day of class.

Part B: Social Justice Diversity and Oppression Portfolio Project

Weight: 30%

Due Date: December 6th 11:59 in designated D2L Dropbox

The purpose of the assignment is for students to apply their knowledge about diversity and oppression via the creation of a social justice portfolio project that demonstrates or represents their learnings from SOWK 304 and SOWK 305. Students will examine their understanding of a specific topic, theme or issue related to diversity or oppression and demonstrates social justice/transformational-oriented action in response to a specific topic, theme, or issue.

This project is intended to be creative in both form and content. The assignment requires students to envision creative possibilities for social justice praxis in action and to design or create a project that involves or facilitates awareness, understanding and/or action. Students may utilize creative mediums such as digital storytelling, podcasting, photovoice, visual arts, etc.

Ideas include, but are not limited to:

- Creating a digital story or digital media artifact about a personally meaningful topic or issue or lived experience related to diversity or oppression.
- Designing a workshop to educate participants about an issue or topic or about the characteristics, strengths, and/or implications of oppression for a specific identity group or population.
- Developing a website, blog or vlog to educate viewers about a topic or issue or to encourage social justice-oriented action in response to a topic or issue.

More information will be provided in class and on D2L.

All projects should include a reflective statement 250-300 words that explains the personal and professional significance.

Assignment 4: Reflection

Weight: 5%

Due Date: December 6th by 11:59 in D2L

Aligned Course Learning Outcomes: 3, 5, 6

Students are asked to write a reflection on the course and the moments they found pivotal to their learning, such as areas that brought up discomfort, and/or shifted their way of knowing or thinking about a particular issue, topic, or theme related to diversity and oppression. Students may draw from any part of the course that stood out to or resonated with them.

This reflection can be written or recorded live in D2L.
